

WEEK 3: Comic Book Research

Conduct some research into existing comic books.

Look at what makes a comic book successful for a long period of time?

What traits do these comics have that lesser successful one have?

Why are they so long running?
What is it about the characters that makes the hero relatable?

What makes a successful comic?

Comic-book characters often have very creative names that are unique to that individual character.

Create a mind-map brainstorming possible ideas for your character name. Ensure it's unique to your character and don't be afraid of being creative with your font art.
